'Best Bank for Emerging Markets Research'

Have you, your desk or your bank been responsible for producing the best technical analysis research or strategy for the emerging markets?

How to Enter:

1. Please complete in not more than 300 words (in a Word document) why you or your company is deserving of the award for Best Bank for Emerging Markets Research. Links may be provided in the text to website information.
2. Complete the online nomination form. Please don't forget to upload your Word document.
3. Please provide three examples of your work to support your entry. This should be sent in electronic format to awards@technicalanalyst.co.uk, quoting your company name and the award category in the subject field of each email.
4. If you have an online service and want to provide trial access as part of your entry, please include login details on the Word document.

You may wish to send some company literature to enhance your entry. Please email this to awards@technicalanalyst.co.uk also quoting your company name and the award category in the subject field.

Your nomination entry will be acknowledged within two working days. If you have not received an acknowledgement within five working days, please contact the events team on +44 (0)1483 573150.

Entry Fees:

To enter the Awards there is an administration charge of £95 + VAT for the first category entered. Additional categories are charged at £65 + VAT each. For each entry we need a separate Word document, a completed online nomination form and, if applicable, any supporting company literature. An invoice will be emailed to you shortly after receipt of your nomination(s).

Further information

If you require more information about The Technical Analyst Awards and the entry process in general, please contact +44 (0)1483 573150 or email awards@technicalanalyst.co.uk.

NOTE: The Technical Analyst reserves the right to edit or shorten entries where the word count is exceeded. This may impact the strength of the nomination. In addition, the Technical Analyst may decide to change, split or reduce award categories if the number and quality of nominations justifies this measure. If you have any confidentiality issues and do not want your research and/or marketing material published on the Awards section of our website, please contact us to discuss solutions. The announced voting results are final – The Technical Analyst is not obliged to enter into any discussion regarding the results.
